“ When i was serving as Associate Pastor at Esto circa 1999 Charles came and preached one Sunday. A few minutes into his sermon he took off his coat to reveal several red dots he had stuck to his torso. His point was that many of us are walking around wounded from past hurts and/or Satan's attacks, but we keep it hidden by dressing in ways to cover it so we can fit in when we assemble. It was quite powerful... .

“ Having known Charles Collins for over 25 years, and being his wife's best friend, I feel his most important legacy is the wonderful family he has left behind and all the many people he impacted through his ministry and love of the Lord. That being said, Charles' dry sense of humor and personality had a way of getting a response out of me. For a number of years we carpooled together and there was more than one sarcastic verbal exchange that ensued during our 25 minutes drives to and from work! Of course that kept life interesting lol. Charles and his family have been an integral part of our lives over the years.....we felt to be adopted into his family and I know he and his family were adopted into ours! May he rest happily in the Lord! Jan and Larry Kim Johson (and Libby Johnson and Loren Johnson and family)
